The Memorarae

Saint Mother Teresa of Calcutta's 'Emergency Novena'

Remember, O most gracious Virgin Mary, that never was it known that anyone who fled to thy protection, implored thy help, or sought thine intercession was left unaided.

Inspired by this confidence, I fly unto thee, O Virgin of virgins, my mother; to thee do I come, before thee I stand, sinful and sorrowful. O Mother of the Word Incarnate, despise not my petitions, but in thy mercy, hear and answer me.

St. Teresa of Calcutta, pray for us!

HAPPY EASTER!

Archbishop Leo's Coat of Arms

Each Bishop possesses his own coat of arms that bears his episcopal motto - usually a quotation from Sacred Scripture - and symbols that have personal significance. The coat of arms is used on documents, letterhead, and other items pertaining to that Bishop.

For his coat of arms, Archbishop Leo has chosen the following:

a gold "trefoiled" processional cross, with five red gems to indicate the Five Wounds of Christ.

The shield, which is central and the most important feature of the coat of arms, is a quatrefoil in gold and azure. In the upper left corner is one of the most widespread Christological and Eucharistic symbols in Christian iconography: the pelican depicted opening its own flesh with its beak to feed its young with the blood that flows from it, as Christ does for His Church. In the upper right corner is the star (7) in silver, which refers to the invocation of the Virgin Mary as the Morning Star or "Stella Matutina" found in the Litany of Loreto. The Morning Star is a sign of the coming day, preceding the rising sun, a promise of light, announcing the coming of the "sun of justice" (Malachi 4:1-3), the "daybreak from on high visiting us" (Luke 1:78). In the lower left corner is the boat in gold, with the wind at its stern, floating on two silver burettes.

This is a well-known and clear reference to the Catholic Church established by Jesus Christ, the barque of Saint Peter. It is an ancient Christian symbol and reminds one of the struggles that the Church endures, tossed about by raging winds, amid storms on the many rough seas of darkness and persecution, but remaining set on its course and mission to bring to the harbour of salvation all of the travellers. In the lower right corner is the lion rampant in red, recalling the Archbishop's surname: Leo, which is Latin for lion. The lion is depicted as rampant, meaning "on its hind legs", with the head in profile. Biblically, the lion is a symbol of courage, power, strength, and the victory of God (cf. Gen. 49:9-10; Rev. 4:7). The lion is the emblem of dignity, of a powerful and fearless ruler, of majesty and strong leadership. It is likewise an image of Christ, the King of Kings. The Messianic title: the Lion of Judah, is applied to Christ himself as we read in the Book of Revelation (5:5): "Do not weep. The lion of the tribe of Judah, the root of David, has triumphed."

For his episcopal motto, which appears on a lower scroll, is the Latin phrase, "QUODCUMQUE DIXERIT FACITE" (which translates in English as, "Do Whatever He Tells you") - Mary's words to the servants at "The Wedding at Cana". In the gospel of St. John, it is the first miracle that Jesus performs and it is at the request of His mother. The motto underscores the Virgin Mother's role of intercessor for the needs of Christ's disciples. These are likewise the last recorded words of Mother Mary in the Gospels - a sort of spiritual testament.
